IMPROVE THE PARKWAYS.

To the Editor of the News:

The citizens of Glendale are spending and intend to spend a large sum of money for street improvements. We are having good streets made. We want good streets. We MUST have good streets. Not only must we have first class thoroughfares but we must have beautiful streets and boulevards. Well made roadways and good cement walks and curbs with a naked parkway does not make our community all that it can and should be. It is like a fine house without suitable grounds.

As fast as the street work is completed let the parkways be planted with trees, palms, etc. (Then is the time to make these improvements, as the parkway is all on grade and there is not the danger of having to dig the trees out.) This is what will make our city attractive to the newcomer and beautiful in the future.

All buildings deteriorate with time, but trees grow and become a monument of beauty in memory of the hand that planted and cared for them. Compare the little blue gum in the nursery with the mighty giants on Lomita avenue; the small pines on Cedar street with the towering Monterey in Mr. Leavitt's yard, a growth of twenty-three years from the seed; the little switch of a tree you buy in quart cans with the magnificent pepper trees you find all over the valley, hardly any of which are more than twenty-three years old. Such is what nature and a little judicious care have done for us.

"What shall I plant?" you say. Acacia dealbata, black acacia, red gums, sugar gums, pepper trees, Monterey pines, blue cypress, bottle trees, Jacarandas (large clusters of purple flowers), Japonicas, camphor and others. All of these trees have their good and bad points. The acacias tend to sprout at the roots too much. The gums and peppers monopolize all the ground, being heavy feeders. The pepper is also objectionable because of the scale and its heavy roots which ultimately will spoil both sidewalk and curb. The various pines and cypress are beautiful but make some litter and seem to die out as they get old, if planted too close together. Bottle trees grow deep roots, large trunks and have fine, glossy, shimmering leaves, but not heavy lateral branches. Jacarandas do not grow so symmetrical as some other trees and are susceptible to severe frost. They have the handsomest flowers of any of the above trees, while the foliage is fine and fernlike. There are two very large specimens of this tree at Capt. Thom's ranch house. Japonicas are not all that they were hoped to be yet their purplish new leaves and upright nature make them somewhat attractive. The camphor is a very beautiful tree, but grows most too slow.

The common California fan palm is too well known to call for any special word. The Washingtonia Robusta is a handsome palm with purplish leaf stock and hardly any hairy filaments. The most desirable fan palm, but also a more expensive one, is the Erythra Edulus. Its large leaves are a beautiful grass green for a long time. They do not tear apart at the tips and look dead, as do the California palm leaves, neither do the leaf stalks have sharp hook-like thorns. A large specimen of this variety may be seen in the yard of Mr. E. T. Byram. The Shamrock palm is a fine street palm, as it takes very little room. The Phoenix palms (commonly called date palms), are very suitable for a wide parkway. There are several varieties of this palm, all of which are very ornamental. There is a very large one in the yard of Mr. J. C. Sherer.

All of these trees and palms can be set at any time of the year if they are in cans or balled, but should have frequent irrigations right on top of ball, as that becomes dry quickly. Now is a good time to set out these plants so they can get well rooted before the ground becomes too cold. If the season is mild they will make root growth all winter. Thus they would be fully established for a fine growth next season and would not need so much care in the summer.

It will add greatly to the beauty and attractiveness of our community if there is some uniformity in the shade trees on the same street, at least in the same block. Let different streets have different trees, as that would give pleasing variation.

I hope that some arrangements will be made by next summer so that all parkways, after being planted, will be cared for in good shape by the city so that they will not be left to die.

GEORGE E. BYRAM.

Death to Squirrels

On the large grain ranches the gray squirrel is quite a nuisance and many have been the efforts to exterminate them. Poison and the gun and gas have been employed, but the hordes of consumers are still with us.

Recently I learned that they are helpless against newspapers; hence I tried it with sure success. Take a piece of newspaper and push it into the hole to their dens and cover it up. The squirrels that are in will never come out. Whether they die from "the lies" in the paper or from starvation my informant saith not; but they will not work thro the paper nor dig out any other direction. They are simply corralled and die. It is a simple and effective remedy. Be sure to put paper into and close every hole in the community section.

GLENDALE, CAL., OCTOBER 12, 1907

The bears in the Louisiana swamps are having a hard time this week. They should have sent a delegation to their relatives in Wall street for pointers, the latter not being without some experience with the same hunter.

President Ripley, of the Santa Fe, has joined the pessimists. As reported in an interview, he says, among other things, that he would not advise anyone to invest a dollar in the western states along the line of his railroad, and all because he thinks that the railroads and corporations generally are being persecuted.

Mr. Ripley should sit down until he cools off.

Not Guilty as Charged

In the case against Senator Borah of Idaho, the prosecution was unable to produce any evidence connecting him with the alleged land steals. At which we rejoice; not because some one should not be convicted, but because one man in high position has been proved innocent. For the same reason we shall rejoice to see the same result in the case of Patrick Calhoun in San Francisco.

The conviction of some of the criminals "higher up" is something devoutly to be wished, but the effect of the acquittal of some of them will be of equal service if it should convince the people that mere accusation is not proof.

The Press Excursion

Some of the members of the Los Angeles County Weekly Country Press Association are off on an excursion to San Francisco this week, and we wish them joy.

We had figured on joining the party and edifying our readers upon our return in regard to things political, moral, financial, social and so forth in that unfortunate city. We had even begun to think up pleasant impromptu little things to say in regard to the Southern Pacific Railroad Co. and its liberality to the members of the country press. But when confronted with the contract which we were required to sign in return for "free transportation" we had to think again and are still thinking.

We will not mention liberality in connection with the S. P. until furnished with additional specifications; at the same time we hope our brethren of the craft will feel upon their return that they have had their "space" worth.

A Municipal Lighting Plant

Mr. L. C. Brand has made a proposition to the trustees to sell to the city of Glendale his complete electric light and power system, which has cost him up to the present time about $21,000. In addition to the original cost, there has been added to the system a line extending to the Erkenbrecher Vineyard tract just adjoining the city limits on Central avenue, which cost $1800. The advance in the price of copper wire since the wires were strung is also an item to be taken into consideration in estimating the value of the property. The plant is even now on a paying basis, but in order to give service wherever it is desired it would be necessary to make a considerable addition to the lines. There are requests for light now on file which cannot be complied with until new lines are built.

It is our understanding that the price asked is $21,000. The acquisition of the plant by the city is something very desirable, and it seems to us that it is a proposition deserving serious consideration. It would probably require a bond issue of $40,000 to purchase the plant and make the necessary extension of the wires.

The matter will probably be presented to our people in some form soon, and in the meantime it is certainly worthy of serious consideration.

"I Think" and "I Know"

The trouble with a great many good people in the world is that they take themselves and their opinions too seriously. They do not differentiate between the "I think" and "I know." The result to themselves is a series of disappointments and a bitter taste in the mouth for which they are never able to account.

We do not wish to make any personal application of this in the present instance, but to point to a more general and rather conspicuous illustration.

A great many successful and even brilliant men in the world of business, brilliantly successful in the estimation of the world at large because they have accumulated money, have recently been expressing opinions, born no doubt of sincere conviction, that the policy of President Roosevelt in continuing to make war upon trusts and "certain malefactors in the business world," has ruined the business of the country. The favorite mouthpieces of these gentlemen are the newspapers of New York City, which, with but two or three exceptions, agree that such is the case.

Now, the trouble with the people who express this opinion is just that of the individuals we first mentioned; they take themselves too seriously. They sincerely imagine that Wall street constitutes the whole business world. They fancy that the time-worn methods of finance that have been in vogue in the stock market for years, must continue forever because they are hoary with precedents. These methods comprise many things which are dishonest, but which have become so common by daily use that many men not otherwise dishonest avail themselves of them as a matter of course. But the point is this: Wall street is not the whole of the business world and the stock market is not the most important of the world's markets. As evidence that the Wall street wallers are not correct in their diagnosis of the case, here is an opinion from Dun's Review:

"All standards of measurement agree that there is no retrograde movement. Eliminating the speculative element as shown by sales of securities, bank exchanges at the principal cities have surpassed last year's; railway earnings have been larger, failures fewer and prices of commodities advanced more than can be attributed to speculation. These four yardsticks are unanimous in showing that no setback has occurred."

This is from high and conservative authority, and testimony of similar character comes from other parts of the country; over Wall street only hovers the murky cloud of gloom.

The president is right. He is not fighting corporations; he is simply endeavoring to compel their honest management. He is not fighting the capitalist; he is only determined to punish the dishonest practices of capitalists.

There is no basis of reason for the plea that capital must be let alone whether it is right or wrong, and that the rich men must be allowed to combine regardless of the law or the rights of others, for fear that they will not continue to do business.

Dishonest methods must be made unpopular; their universal prevalence cannot make their practice respectable.

The Glendale Sanitarium has been equipped with a private exchange telephone system by the Sunset Company, the work being done by Mr. F. L. Church. This gives the institution a very thorough telephone service all through the establishment.

Bulletin of Progress

A heavy tide of immigration from Eastern points has marked the month according to returns received by The California Promotion Committee, bearing out the prediction made by the Committee prior to the opening of the fall colonist season. The number of colonists arriving during the month almost doubled those arriving for the same period one year ago. All parts of the state report good effects from this infusion of new people, and business conditions in all lines show steady increase.

California's grape harvest was exceptionally good, and the net results to growers have been the largest of any season. Large acreages are being put to vines, and many new vineyards are coming into bearing, but the demand continues to increase more rapidly than it can be supplied, resulting in increasing prices.

Building activity is noted in all California cities, and this is especially noted in the erection of better-class residences and business blocks. The demand for building material is steady and prices in all lines are now normal.

There has been great demand for school teachers all over California, and as a result salaries have been increased materially in all parts of the State, but without achieving the desired result of filling the requirements.

Numerous small factories have been started in interior cities and towns, and there is consequent increased demand for operative help. Men and women are needed in large numbers and can find steady employment.

The following summary for September shows California conditions:

San Francisco building permits, $4,113,732.

San Francisco building permits since the fire $85,335,477.

Oakland building permits, $645,303.

San Francisco real estate sales, 610; value, $2,025,000.

San Francisco bank clearings, $182,015,230.94.

San Francisco bank clearings, September, 1906, $198,712,503.47.

San Francisco bank clearings, September, 1905 $168,329,716.22.

Los Angeles bank clearings, $45,663,668.

Oakland bank clearings, $11,078,101.

San Jose bank clearings, $2,426,505.

Stockton bank clearings, $2,418,505.

San Francisco Customs receipts, $505,881.

The benefit of advertising in the newspapers in a way to attract attention has been demonstrated anew in the case of a weekly publication in New York. Four years ago the subscribers did not number 50,000. Chiefly by means of display advertisements in the leading daily newspapers its circulation has been increased to 300,000. The ads. were striking and convincing.

Many small merchants in the cities are apt to think that, while the department stores should advertise, advertising is a profitless expenditure for the small business that finds its custom only in the immediate neighborhood of the store. These men fail to take into consideration the fact that in many instances the department store began life as a neighborhood store and increased its business by judicious advertising. Advertising is just as profitable for the small business as for the large one.

Judicious newspaper publicity comes first, of course; but in connection with this newspaper advertising the small merchant may issue from time to time a store paper. Some kind of advertisement should be placed in every bundle of goods sent out of the store, and in every way the merchant should endeavor to keep his establishment before the eyes of the public.—Exchange.

Creation Myth of California Indians

The Indians of California differ from other Indians in having a systematic myth of the creation, and in recognizing a supreme power in the shape of a deity. So says Professor A. L. Kroeber of the University of California in his latest discussion on the religion of the California Indians. Those of the southern part of the State attributed the origin of man, animals and plants to the first parents, heaven and earth. Professor Kroeber goes on to describe how the medicine man or doctor receives his peculiar powers in a dream, but sometimes inherits from his father or grandfather the control of certain spirits that endow him with magic power. Disease is not only cured, but caused by the medicine man. The Indians describe pain as a small worm-like object that can fly swiftly and invisibly through the air, and enter a human being and give rise to sickness.

The public ceremonies of the California Indians are less spectacular and sensational than those of many other Indian tribes. They are unique for the great numbers of mourning ceremonies. Dances are held principally to bring on good crops and weather and abundance of game, and to prevent disaster such as earthquake, flood and disease.—Berkeley News Letter.

There is Money in Stockings

As well as in old tin cans, under the carpet and hidden about the bed. But, is it safe?
It may burn or thieves break in and steal.

Why not deposit it in the Bank of Glendale and let them put it in circulation, and at the same time help build up this valley and thus help the community?

Look over our list of directors and say if your money is not just as safe and under as good management as it would be in the largest bank in California. We want your business. 2w23

A New Poet

The twentieth century has not thus far been productive the birth of a great poet, unless the star of George Sterling, just now visible above the literary horizon, my prove to be the long looked for sign of his coming. He is vouched for by Ambrose Bierce, in whose critical judgement we have had considerable confidence heretofore for he is not an admirer of Joaquin Miller, Frances Dawson and some others? Mr. Bierce declares that Geo. Sterling is the greatest poet this side of the Atlantic. We are glad of the limitation, as it does not obliterate kipling! The critics high praise is evoked by the poem entitled "The Wine of Wizardry," tho why not "The Wizardry of Wine" we fain would like! The poem is a nightmare of fancy and full of original adjectives turned deftly in well medred verse. Two lines will indicate the style.

"The blue eyed vampire, sated at her feast Smiles bloodily against the leprous moon"

Blue eyed vampires are something new in poetry, and possibly when taken in connection with these lines:

"A sick enchantress scans the dark to curse Besides a callon vext with harlots blood," many indicate a poet born to the world, but it really seems to us that he should appear upon the stage in a more temperate guise even at the risk of being overlooked.

Lomita is situated in the midst of a naturally rich farming country with great possibilities as a productive settlement.

The L. C. D. E. Club, composed of enthusiastic girls working under the direction of Mrs. B. H. Nichols, for the support and education of a young girl among the mountain whites, has perfected plans for a fine entertainment to be given soon. Something very unique and laughable has been arranged for and already much interest is given to the affair. Full particulars will be given next week.

Rally Day was very appropriately observed last Sunday at the First Presbyterian church where special services were conducted by Superintendent Hopping for the Sunday school. Specially prepared music was given by the school and Mr. Hopping's map talk proved most interesting. Rev. S. Lawrence Ward gave something of interest concerning Rally Day. The church was finely decorated.

The new library board held an initial meeting on Wednesday at the city hall and discussed work to be immediately taken up. Officers elected were: President, E. D. Goode; secretary, Mrs. Lillian S. Wells. An adjourned meeting will be held on the fourth Wednesday of the month, but regular meetings will be called on each first Wednesday, to be held in the library room. Other members of the board are: Mrs. J. N. Witham, Mrs. Robert Blackburn and Dr. A. L. Bryant.

The monthly meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society will be held at the home of Mrs. E. T. Byram, on Glendale avenue, on Tuesday, October 15, at 2:30 p. m. The foreign topic will be Persia, led by Mrs. S. L. Ward.

The home topic, "The Mormons," will be omitted because of the address of Dr. Wishard on that subject, in the church on Sabbath evening, Oct. 12; and some of the time will be devoted to an inquiry, "Where did Queen Esther live?" drawing upon the Bible and upon descriptions of the ruins of old Persian cities.

Work on Fourth Street

The contract for work on the improvement of Fourth street between Glendale avenue and Adams street having been canceled, will now be re-advertised and the work done under the bond act. The probability is also that the work will be extended to the Childs Tract line just west of the public school.

This is a step in the right direction and we wish that the property owners might see their way clear to putting the improvements all the way through to Verdugo Road. Fourth street is one of our principal cross streets and should be in the best possible condition.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

After their summer vacation the ladies of the Tuesday Afternoon Club turned out in full force to the first meeting of the season of 1907-08, last Tuesday afternoon. The new officers, Mrs. Martha W. Morris, president, and Mrs. F. L. Church, secretary, assumed their duties. After routine business had been transacted, there was a call of the roll which was responded to by vacation reminiscences on the part of the members. These roll call responses are always an interesting feature of the club meetings, and on this occasion were particularly so. Mrs. Pack responded very happily by some description of a month's visit at Shasta Springs, a Northern California resort at the base of Mt. Shasta, where she said that one was privileged not only to look upon one of the grandest of mountain views that California affords, but also to meet with people from all parts of the world who patronize that delightful resort. Mrs. Banker told of her visit to Colorado and spoke of the grand scenery of the mountain region along the route. Others gave interesting brief accounts of their summer experiences. Mrs. J. C. Sherer, who made her first appearance at the club after a year's absence in the eastern States, was very cordially welcomed by the members, and spoke briefly.

The program for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. G. E. Williams and Mrs. J. N. Witham, the subject being "Household Economics and Domestic Science." Mrs. Wells gave an interesting talk on the chemistry of cooking. Miss Hickman spoke of flowers, a subject very evidently near to her heart, and dwelt eloquently upon their place in nature, in daily life and in poetry. Mrs. Ryan called the attention of the members of the club to the Horace K. Turner Art Exhibit to be held at the High School on October 17th, 18th and 19th and showed some of the pictures. At 5 o'clock the program was not nearly completed and had proved so entertaining that the members were unwilling to lose the remainder, so that a motion to hold a special meeting next Tuesday, the 15th, was unanimously carried.

A Pleasant Surprise

Members of Carnation Rebekah Lodge very cleverly planned a most pleasant surprise for their popular Noble Grand Miss Ida M. Waite for Friday evening. Miss Waite was invited by Mrs. E. D. Goode to "drop in and have tea." Upon her arrival she found herself honor guest to the entire lodge.

The spacious home was fragrant with flowers. Out on the large veranda, beautifully decorated with curtains of greenery, potted plants, and all ablaze with electric lights, a long table was set with richest viands and decorated with the three links in crimson geraniums lying upon the snowy damask, with covers laid for fifty.

At the close of the excellent repast Mrs. F. Gilman Taylor acted as toastmistress and wit and compliment wove a golden network of poesy which will long be remembered by the charmed honoree and the guests themselves. Toasts given were as follows: "The Stranger Within Our Gates," Mrs. M. O. Ryan; "New Fields of Usefulness," Rev. C. R. Rorton; "Our Plumed Knight," Mr. E. D. Goode, and "The Three Links," Mrs. J. M. Banker, Miss L. Bulkeley and Mrs. E. D. Reynolds, piano, mandolin and guitar, and many bright songs filled the evening with enjoyment.

Y. M. C. A.

There was a meeting last Wednesday of the committee appointed by the several churches to consider the establishment of a Young Men's Christian Association in Glendale.

This is a most worthy object and we hope to see it carried out, provided satisfactory arrangements can be made for its support. An institution of this kind requires not only considerable outlay in the beginning, but a constant expenditure thereafter, to make it a success. It is one of those things which everybody admits to be desirable, but everybody will not contribute to. A large number of people are ready to start a project of this sort, just as a large number of people believe in planting trees, but after sticking them in the ground, leave them to die of neglect.

We presume, however, that the committee will not go ahead until the ability of the community to support it is demonstrated.

We understand also that the question of location is already creating some friction. If the young men are to be saved by "metes and bounds" only, we had better go ahead slowly.

THE REV. YOUNG AT TROPICO.

Our old friend and former pastor, the Rev. W. S. Young, will preach at the Tropico Presbyterian church tomorrow; the occasion being a congregational meeting to consider and act upon the resignation and election of a pastor. It was under Mr. Young's leadership of the Glendale Presbyterian church that the church building now located at Fourth and C streets, was built, twenty-two years ago. Mr. Young has been actively engaged in church work until a few months ago, when he accepted the position of superintendent of the Hollenbeck home on Boyle Heights. He has been active also in the upbuilding of Occidental college. In brief Mr. Young is a worker wherever he may be and a demonstrator of the true Christian idea, that faith and works go hand in hand.

The young couple expect to spend the coming winter in Rosemond, after which they will return to Glendale where they will make their future home.

Dance at Country Club

The initial informal dance given on Friday evening by the Glendale Country Club members, at the club house, was one of a series to be given there this winter. There were about one hundred in attendance. Schoneman & Blanchard's orchestra of Los Angeles furnished exceptionally fine music. Those who attended report a very fine time.

The Water Supply

The water supply in the streams of Southern California is better this season than it has been for years past.

The pumping plants along the Los Angeles river are taking more water than heretofore and yet that stream shows an increase in supply which confounds all the theories of the City of Los Angeles that the ranches were pumping water that would otherwise flow into the river. As a matter of fact there is not much doubt but that the pumping plants are increasing the supply in the river below them. They raise the water from lower levels and pour it upon the ground.

None of it is lost except that percentage which is taken up by plant growth and evaporation. The city got what it wanted however and the rancher paid the bill.

Ninth Street

A petition is being circulated for the improvement of Ninth street east of Glendale avenue. This street certainly needs to have some work done on it as its present condition is very bad, and it would be a mistake to be satisfied with anything less than the best. We hope the necessary majority frontage will be obtained. The people who reside and expect to continue to reside on a street get a satisfaction out of its improved condition which cannot be expressed in dollars, while those who hold their property for sale usually get very quick returns for the money expended.

The Pure Food Inspector Talks

Speaking of pure foods, Mrs. Brown, have you ever tried Sealshipt oysters? They are the only oysters I ever allow my wife to order. They are the only oysters that I consider absolutely safe. They are shipped in sealed enameled cases, with the ice outside. That's the main point—keeping the ice away from the oysters. The Lord only knows what germs there are in the ice we use. I certainly don't want any of it in contact with my food.

Just try some Sealshipt oysters and you will find that they are delicious as well as pure. They have a salt-water tang that fairly makes my mouth water to think about.
